

'CONSTANT PATIENTS' CREATE TROUBLE, REED TELLS PSYCHOLOGISTS

"There needn't be any hospital at all in Canada with closed or locked doors if these would be only one small institution to house the patients who were constantly creating trouble." This is the opinion expressed by Dr. Reed, medical superintendent of the Verdun Protestant Hospital and Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at McGill, as he addressed the Psychology Club yesterday. He said that out of 1,000 patients in a mental hospital, there are only about 20 patients that have to be kept locked up for the protection of themselves and others. As a result of this small minority mental institutions have to be built with certain safeguards and locked wards. If these patients were all kept in one hospital, every other hospital would not have to have any locks whatsoever.

STATISTICS 'MISLEADING'

Dr. Reed brought forth some statistics to show the relative importance of mental illness. Half of all the hospital beds in the country are filled by mental patients, some surveys conducted a few years ago showed that 30 per cent of all illnesses in a general hospital are a result of mental illness and another illness 30 per cent of all regular maladies are due to a very great extent to mental maladjustment. Dr. Reed said however that some of these statistics are grossly misleading. In a regular hospital the patients who are not cured are sent home either to live with their illness or to die. The mental patients cannot be sent home because of the great problems they create there. The 50 per cent for mental patients results from an accumulation of incurables over the past 50 years. Many of these are cured but it takes years and years compared to the average two to three week stay in a general hospital.

PRAISES NEW DRUG

Dr. Reed also commented on the new drug Chlorpromazine. The sedatives that were used before the discovery of this drug relaxed the patient but also left the patient in a dopy and confused state so that he was not very susceptible to psychotherapy. Chlorpromazine relaxed the patient but allows him to think as clearly as if no sedation were present. "This drug," he said, "has already helped many who couldn't be cured for years and shows great promise in the treatment of mental illnesses."

Policy Determinants Ford Lecture Topic

"Skill, vitality and stability" help to determine a country's influence in foreign affairs, said Mr. R. Ford, recently Canadian Charge d'Affaires in Moscow in a lecture to History 421 students and other interested people yesterday morning.

Mr. Ford was discussing the factors upon which Canada's foreign policy depends. These include psychological, geographic, economic, and population considerations. "Although Canada's population is small, its detach and impartial stand commands respect," Mr. Ford said.

CANADIAN RELATIONS

He went on to talk about Canada's relations with the Commonwealth countries, the United States, Latin America, and the Pacific powers. Canada's NATO commitments are a new departure — previously Canada had been reluctant to promise military aid when the country was not at war. Canada tries to balance its defense preparations between Europe and the Arctic. She participates with the USA on defense bases on her soil while trying to maintain her sovereignty in these bases.

Mr. Ford described the functions of embassies on foreign soil. Supervision of relations between Canada and other countries, the weighing of information about these countries, correspondence and negotiations with them are some of the functions. Canada must also be represented at the United Nations and other organizations, and must provide information about herself to those interested, Mr. Ford said.

EMPLOYMENT OFFERS

In the discussion period that followed he talked about opportunities for employment in the external Affairs department. Anyone can take the tests given to find out who would be useful in this field; — political science background is not necessary, though helpful. To a question about the relative importance of pull, seniority, and ability for success in the department, Mr. Ford said only the last two counted, especially ability. The large universities tend to supply more personnel than the small ones, he related.

Dean H. N. Fieldhouse introduced the speaker. Close to a hundred attended the lecture.

Integration Urged Of Music Faculty

By SAUL LEVINE

An integration between the Faculty of Music and the rest of McGill University was urged last night by Eric McLean, music critic of the Montreal Star.

Taking part in the third of a series of discussions by some of the city's leading critics and musicians, he said it was a pity that there is a complete physical separation of the music faculty from the rest of the University.

Mr. McLean, along with Thomas Archer, of the Montreal Gazette, H. P. Bell, of the Montreal Herald, and musicians Helmut Blume and Alexander Brott, answered questions by Radoslav Zuk, sixth year architecture student.

He first asked, "How important are organized musical activities at a university; what should be their scope; and how should they be carried out?"

Mr. Brott pointed out that most of the younger generation do not realize "the supreme joy one gets from actually playing the instrument, compared to listening to one."

All agreed that a symphony orchestra was needed at McGill, and that all musical productions — including the Red and White Revue — should be sponsored by the Conservatory of Music.

Records serve as an encouragement rather than a threat to live professional concerts, Mr. McLean replied to the question, "Is the record industry a threat to live concerts?"

Mr. Archer said that the best recording "is not worth 50 per cent of the actual concert performance," while Mr. Blume anologized a recording to a live performance "as a good travelogue is to the actual trip."

All agreed that acoustical problems were of prime importance, in building any concert hall, in discussing the question, "How important are the monumental designs of a concert hall?" They said that after this had been sol-

PROGRAMME FINALISED FOR ACTING LESSONS

The programme for the acting lessons organized by the Players Club has now been finalised.

Twenty-four lessons will be given, the first one on Thursday. All the classes will be given in the McGill Union and will start at 8 pm every Tuesday and Thursday.

A very large variety of subjects will be covered. One of the most important is Stage Presence, that is to say the art of projecting personality, and the ability to move with ease on the stage. Other subjects include body movement — mainly to help people move and rest their hands without embarrassment. Mime and improvisation; interpretation; voice and characterisation are also included, together with special classes in make-up.

The two main aims of the classes are to teach something about every aspect of theatre, and secondly to help build the confidence required on the stage, and incidentally, everywhere else.

Mrs. Norma Springford, who is the instructress, has said that she will be only too glad to give her advice on anything to do with theatre to any student. She suggested some subjects which generally caused trouble and on which she could be of great assistance. For instance how to get auditions for T.V. and theatre, and whom to approach with a view to getting anything published.

Enrollment for the acting lessons, which are entirely free, can be made by leaving your name and address with George at the Union Tuck Shop, or by phoning MA. 4080.

CUS Presidential Elections Thursday

Commerce undergraduates will go to the polls Thursday to elect two class presidents, one the permanent fourth year class head.

Les Tisshaw, president of the Commerce Undergraduate Society, announced yesterday that class presidents had been acclaimed in both first and third years. They are Daniel Gold and Alex Gomez, respectively.

Nominated for second year president are Hy Eiley and Don Wright, while the fourth year race is between Ken Asch, John Ferrabee, Bev Giles and Don Wood.

The polls will be located in the men's common room of the Arts Building and will be open from 10 am to 4 pm.

Immorality of God Is Panel Subject

A panel discussion on The Immorality Of The Christian God is being sponsored by the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society, on Thursday, as a further development to a recent series of articles in The Daily.

The forum will be held in the Walter M. Stewart room of the Union, and panelists will include Donald Kingsbury, fourth year honours mathematics students, and James Lotz, graduate student in geography, first person in the debating union's history to have won both novice and senior trials.

Two divinity students will complete the panel, which will be chaired by Rev. Clifford Knowles, University chaplain and student counsellor.

The panel follows a series of articles by Mr. Kingsbury on the subject, which struck at the foundations of Christian belief, and were meant to stimulate discussion and interest.

8 Nominations Are Received For SEC Posts

To date eight nominations have been received for the seven positions at stake on the Students' Executive Council.

Two candidates have been proposed for the two posts on the SEC from the faculty of Arts and Science. Commerce has nominated one student for the one position vacant in that school. The same holds true for Law. In the faculty of Medicine one student has been nominated for the seat on the SEC. Music and Divinity have one person running for their joint representation. At the time of writing, it appeared that the only contest would be in the faculty of Engineering. There, two people have been nominated for the one position at stake.

The deadline for nominations is 2 pm today. In any faculty where no nominations are received, there will be no election, and the seat will remain vacant.

Election day will be November 30.

nament. This year, 44 colleges have entered 71 teams, a total of 284 debaters.

The McGill team this year will consist of two senior teams, of Wilson Southan and Bob Gualtieri, supporting the affirmative side, while Herman Gelber and Norman Samuels uphold the negative. Geraldine Ostroff and Stuart Smith, Renée Rothman and Stanley Blicher make up the affirmative novice team. Dave Schatia and Perry Cohen, Neville Linton and Michel Beausang, are on the negative side of the novice team. The Chairman of the team is Ralph Ordawer.

Upon arrival at Burlington, the students will register at the Hotel Vermont. At 7 pm, the first round of the debating will begin, followed by the second round at 8:30 pm. In all, novice and senior teams will participate in five rounds of debating — each consisting of a ten minute speech as well as a five minute rebuttal.

On Saturday morning, the third round will begin at 10 am. The last two trials will take place at 1:30 and 3:30 pm, there will be a banquet for all debating teams and their coaches. During the banquet, the results will be announced. A student dance will be held at

Editorial*CAMPUS EYESORES

The well kept campus of McGill, studded with stately trees and surrounded by slowly mellowing buildings is quite rightly considered to be one of the sights of Montreal. The scrupulous attention paid to the grounds, the careful raking of leaves, and removal of litter serves only to highlight one standing eyesore — the general state of the notice boards. These boards, at times, seem literally to sprout notices. The impression gained is of the various posters having been thrown at the board from a distance, landing and hanging haphazardly, overlapping each other, dangling crazily from the bottom or waving in the wind at the top. There is just not enough room on these boards.

The sight of a pretty society publicity secretary valiantly hammering her notice on the board with her shoe raises another notice board problem. Not only bigger notice boards, but better notice boards are needed — boards that do not cause staplers to give up in disgust, and do not bend thumb tacks as well as thumbs.

Notice boards are meant to be noticed. At present their small size and untidy appearance defeat their purpose — that of providing a quick, convenient guide to student social life. Student societies are an important part of University life. Let them be given the facilities they need to publicize their activities.

DIFFICULT TASK

This year there are 6,703 students registered at McGill, 452 of whom have received grants from the University amounting to $113,590, and another 258 students have come to McGill with outside awards. Only slightly over 10% of McGill students are given any financial assistance.

After struggling through a little red booklet called "Scholarships, Bursaries, Prizes, and Medals", we found out that a scholarship is an award "based on academic standing alone", while a bursary is "a grant made to a needy student who has reasonably good academic standing". One must apply for a bursary on forms obtainable at the Registrar's Office; a scholarship, prize or medal generally arrives as a gift from the gods.

Very few of the lucky 10% among us receive as much substantial support as honour from their awards. Leafing through the red booklet, we are given the impression that the average amount of a scholarship is about $125, and we found some prizes and bursaries at $20 and $10. Many of these awards, donated by well-meaning societies and individuals, have qualifications which the University is powerless to change. The commonest restriction specifies the students' sex, but religion, race and colour are also mentioned.

Every year the University awards approximately 140 University Scholarships, which bring with them the highest academic honour for undergraduates. Although only a few awards of the maximum $400 are made, every University Scholar must be given the minimal $100, regardless of his financial means. It takes a great deal of will-power to return $100, even if it is not needed; this year 11 out of the 134 students did so. And money returned to the University in this way is not used to start a new University Scholarship, but to increase the amount given that year to the students who really need it.

Students who come to university in spite of financial difficulties are likely to be those with the greatest interest and capacity for hard work, even though they may not always lead the class on the basis of marks. With a very limited amount of money available, it is the University's hard task to maintain a balance between financial assistance and the distribution of honour.

Letters to the Editor*Come Down To Earth

Sir:

Why doesn't Mr. Nerenberg come down out of his ivory tower and take a serious look at his "wonderful" Marxist theories. In his article in the Daily he is not thinking for himself but letting others advance ideas which he unhesitatingly accepts because of their origin. I could only find a few paragraphs in his article that were his own.

Mr. Nerenberg and his fellow communists have taken the attitude that they know what is good for us and will stop at nothing to force it down our throats whether we like it or not. They are sure that we will all accept their revelation of the truth as soon as they have taken power and cast the mote of our eyes that has been placed there by the "capitalistic exploiters". Those that are incurable will, of course, be liquidated for the good of the state.

Has it ever occurred to these communists that the function of the government is not responsibility for its own welfare, but rather for the welfare of the individuals of the state. Otherwise complete anarchy provides a much rosier picture for the future than the communist state under which no one has any individual rights.

Has it ever occurred to Mr. Nerenberg that human nature cannot be revolutionized. We cannot reach anyone's idea of a Utopia overnight, yet the communists try to do just that. We realize that our present society is nowhere near perfect but by democratic means we can try to arrive at something as close to perfection as human nature will permit and do it in such a way that no one will lose their individual liberties or their lives in the evolution.

David Lockhead.

Bay Leaves and Honey

Sir:

Little does this University realize the furthest ramifications of an incident which occurred on the lower campus last Sunday night. Nor do I think that, once the news is published, the student body will do much to rectify the situation that now exists.

The event that took place is this: by dead of night, 'neath a starless sky, there was planted in an undisclosed location on the campus, a piece of hallowed sod dug from the grounds of Harvard University. The ceremony accompanying this transplantation included not only a Black Mass, but, in the best classical tradition, the scattering of bay leaves, milk, honey and locks of hair on the site, as well as Latin and Greek invocations, and primitive Zauberdichtungen.

Let us examine the inference to be drawn from this occasion. McGill is now no longer an autonomous institution, but, so to speak, an affiliate — or dependent — of Harvard University.

The facts are now proclaimed. The location of the sod is known only to the transplanters. McGill can now do nothing but accept its inferior status, and therefore it is only right and proper that from this day henceforth, on the anniversary of this significant ceremony, memorial services be held commemorating McGill's entry into Servitude.

H. C. Schlieper.

P.S. Unfortunately, bay leaves and honey were not obtainable for the ceremony, and the functionaries felt that chilli peppers and peanut butter were more than adequate substitutes.

Senior Polo Team Meets Dominion Champion Blues

Tonight McGill's senior water polo team meets the highly touted Y.M.H.A. Blues. From what the "Y" showed in its 26-5 pasting of Concordia, the Blues aren't going to sit back on their last years reputation, but have once again come up with a powerhouse team. The Redmen, meanwhile, lost their first game 6-5 to a strong Y.M.C.A. team.

While a win over the Blues seems a bit far-fetched, Barry Thompson's boys haven't as yet given up hope. The first thing they'll have to do is stop the Y.M.H.A.'s big guns; namely Milieu Klacko, Syd Kastner and Norm Goldberg. In their last outing, these three scored all 26 of the "Y"'s goals.

Despite their loss to the YMCA last Thursday, several of the Redmen played well. Johnny Duarte-Charbrol was a standout in nets and he stopped many a shot that seemed labelled as a goal. In his first water polo game at McGill, Charlie Evelyn, a product of the West Indies, more than lived up to his advance notices. He was the best man on the forward line, as the "Y" held high-scoring Bernie Toporowski in check. Robbie Cook, who has returned after a years absence, is one of the fastest men on the team, and he showed his speed to good advantage on Thursday.

Tonight's game will see Charbrol in goals for the Redmen with Rosenberg and Gelfand playing defense. Evelyn will start at half with Toporowski, Cook and Ed Adelson on the forward line. Fred Weinstein and Rod Roy will spell the forwards and Bill Manning will alternate on defence.

The game is scheduled to start at 8:30 pm at the Y.M.H.A. pool in Snowdon.

Six exhibition games have been lined up for the intermediate squad. Most of these games will be part of a double-header, with inters playing first and the seniors following. The first game is called for November 23, at the McGill pool.

Blues in the Bank

Bank managers often figure in novels, plays and movies but the latest version of Kafka's "The Trial" is the first time one's been given the leading role in an opera. It's a two-hour part for tenor. One morning he's unaccountably arrested. From then on, he staggers from one cold hope to another, never learning what hope is accused of, or who his accusers are. At the final curtain he's marched off and stabbed to death by men he doesn't know. The score has more barking sound effects than music and bears out one critic's contention that "The Trial" proves to be just that.

While some Royal Bank managers have good tenor voices, their main job is looking after customers' cash, and making a little for the bank, too. They're always glad to have McGill men as depositors because though the amounts may be small, they have a habit of growing into respectable sums, after graduation. And we like to be in on the ground floor. There are six Royal Bank branches near McGill — Peel & Sherbrooke, St. Catherine & McGill College, St. Catherine & Stanley, Sherbrooke & Bleury, Sherbrooke & Guy and Sherbrooke & Fort. ## STUDENTS' SOCIETY MEETING to 1:00 P.M. on Thursday, December 1, 1955.

'The Meeting of the Students Society previously announced has been

The Meeting will consider all items which may be presented in accordance with the Constitution, and, in particular, the following amendments to the Constitution:

An amendment to "Article XII-Referendum" which was approved in full at the Meeting held on February 10, 1955, and which was ratified by the University with the exception of "Section 5" which now reads:

"For the referendum to be of any effect whatsoever, at least 300 students must vote".

The University has proposed that "Section 5" be altered to read:

"For the referendum to be of any effect whatsoever, at least 20 per cent of the members of the Students' Society must vote".

An amendment of paragraph four of Section "(b) Elections" of "Article V-Officers" which now reads:

"The Vice-President shall be elected by the Students' Executive Council from among their own number before the fifteenth day of February in each year. In the event of resignation, a successor shall be elected by and from the Students' Executive Council."

It is proposed that this paragraph be altered to read:

"The Vice-President shall be the President of the McGill Union".

R. A. SHACKELL,
Secretary-Treasurer.
